

FACET

TECHNICAL DATA SHEET

blooming

Applicable

Blooming Facet is available as Hanging room divider and as Freestanding room divider. Facet can be used as a partitioning space divider, in front of a window (instead of using blinds) or in front of a wall as decoration / wall panel.

Materials

Blooming Facet consists of three basic elements, the facets, the frame and the ceiling attachments (in case of the Hanging version) or the outer framework (in case of the Freestanding version).

The facets are an injection moulded product, this provides the following for Facet important qualities; fire retardant, UV resistant and antistatic. It is sustainable and can be directly recycled.

The frame consists of aluminium tube & injection moulded connection parts. These parts are also fire retardant, antistatic and UV resistant.

The ceiling attachments (Hanging Divider) consists of brushed stainless steel or powder coated aluminum.

The outer framework (Freestanding divider) is made from hollow aluminum triangular tubes which make the frame extremely light, sturdy and strong. The framework has a powder coated finish.

Colors

Facet is available in a beautiful color collection. Visit www.blooming.com to see the full selection. Next to the standard collection it is possible to develop Facet in a special color for your project.

Dimensions

Blooming's Facet consists of a modular system, it is available in more than 100 standard dimensions. We also offer to possibility to create a custom divider in almost any size for your project.

Usage

Facet is developed for indoor usage.

Installation

Divider Facet is easy to install. See the Hanging Room Divider Facet Installation Guide or the Freestanding Room Divider Installation Guide. If you don't have the installation manual in your possession please contact Blooming.

Production

Divider Facet is produced by Blooming in The Netherlands.

General Conditions

We can only accept orders or agreements under the applicability of the Blooming general terms and conditions of services, sale and delivery. These general conditions are applicable to all the orders and agreements. The general terms are available on our website www.blooming.com/generalconditions. You can download the general conditions from our website (for free). The applicability of any terms and conditions used by you, are expressly excluded.

Contact

For information or questions visit: www.blooming.com